Topic: Hydrotreated Vegetable Oil

Description: Hydrotreated Vegetable Oil

HVO is a fossil free renewable form of diesel. Biodiesel fuels are derived from the same renewable resources however HVO is not the same. In this presentation we will learn the features and benefits of HVO. We will discuss the production process of how the fuel is made and how it compares to diesel fuel. Since HVO fuel is new to the market, we will discuss the supply chain availability currently and what production is expected to be through the end of 2024. We will also discuss applications and markets best suited for using HVO.

Speaker Bio's:

Todd Smith, Business Development Manager at Fidelity Power Systems and Kohler Industrial Energy Systems, Todd has over 20 years of cumulative experience in power generation, diesel engines, switchgear, UPS systems and other industrial electrical equipment industries. He joined the Fidelity/Kohler team in 2013 and specializes in business development, product development/market implementation, technical sales and marketing.
